Tobacco Costs Must Be Cut Ranck Tells TGA

Milton Ranck, veteran tobacco buyer and handler from Lancaster, reminsced about the "good" old days" in the tobacco business, spoke briefly about the "romance in tobacco" and noted the changes in public taste in cigar smoking in a talk Friday before the Lancaster County Tobacco Growers Assn.

But, in the opinion of many growers present, he failed to answer the question most troubling the grower today — how is tobacco to be handled and grown in the future?

Ranck did say that with the advent of chemistry in the tobacco industry the farm handling of leaf has changed and is due to change considerably in the future.

Getting into some of the changes, Ranck said that experimental work is now being done in machine cutting of tobacco, and the curing of leaf in much the same manner as hay is cured by forced air today.

One reason for this, Ranck said, is that costs must be cut in tobacco production while still achieving a maximum volume. "You can't afford to grow tobacco at today's low prices," he said, while sill using the mehods of yesterday."

'We must invent methods of getting away from hand labor"

"Quality is getting to be a lesser factor with volume the thing to try for now" Ranck said. "If I were a young man growing tobacco I would try to grow as many pounds as possible," he said

When reminded that volume and quality tend to go hand in hand, he said that quality will never be discounted, but that volume is what will be most desired

Here specifically is what Ranck had to say about the handling of the 1958 crop: Watch moisture,

AN ENTIRE CLASS of Holstein heifers barely makes a good gathering in the huge main arena at the Farm Show Bldg. The effect of freezing roads and rain on attendance Tuesday is also evident in this picture. The estimated crowd totalled only 75,000 compared to the record breaking 135,000 crowd Monday.

4-H Baby Beeves To Be Auctioned Today

The 4-H baby beeves, darlings of the livestock department at the Farm Show, were weighed Wednesday, judged yesterday, and sold over the auction block today to become prime steaks and roasts.

Junior Chicken of Tomorrow Entry Blanks Now Available

Entry blanks for the state Junior Chicken of Tomorrow contest will be available at the Quarryville office of Lancaster Farming until the Feb. 1 entry deadline, according to Robert E. Best, Lancaster Farming editor and member of the Coatesville Region Committee.

The contest is open to any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 20 or any junior agricultural group. The contestant must be sponsored by a Pennsylvania Poultry Federation member.

Exchange May Merge to Form One Poultry Assn.

Lancaster County poultrymen will vote Jan 23 on a proposition to merge the Lancaster Poultry Exchange and the Lancaster County Poultry Assn at the annual meeting of the Exchange to be held at the Poultry Center.

In addition to the proposed merger, three directors are to be elected. The meeting will begin at 7 30 p m

The proposition reads as follows

"In the interests of greater working efficiency within the poultry industry and the elimination of duplication in their respective areas, the Directors of the Lancaster Poultry Exchange and the Directors of the Lancaster County Poultry Assn. recommend to their membership the following resolution:

"RESOLVED, That the Lancaster Poultry Exchange and the merge and retain the title of Lancaster County Poultry Assn. merge and retain the title of the latter, that the Exchange maintain its business name and continue to do business as at present, under the direction of a committee elected from and by the Directors of the Lancaster County Poultry Assn to whom it shall be responsible; that the new Board of Directors of the Lancaster County Poultry Assn. will be the present Directors of the Poultry Exchange plus the present Directors of the County Association; that all of the above stipulations be contingent upon the approval of this resolution by both the Lancaster Poultry Exchange and the Lancaster County Poultry Assn."

Speaker at the Exchange meeting will be the Rev. Nevin E. Smith of Hanover. His topic will be "Present-Day-People."

Nominees for the directorships are: Buyers and processors, Daniel K. Good, Columbia, now on the board; John Keesey, Fredericksburg; Willis McCarty, New Holland. Feed and Hatchery, Eugene Cassel, Landisville; Raymond Colvin, Lancaster; Wiliam Foreman, Lancaster; John Longenecker, Elipabethtown; Reyonlds Monnich, Lancaster Producers, Harvey Brown, Birdsboro; Clair E. Fitz, York; Robert Harnish, Conestoga; Roy B. Herr, Lampeter, presentely a board member; and Joseph Lesley, Oxford.

Now Is The Time . . .

TO PLAN FOR SPRING TREE PLANTING — Now is the time to plan and order the evergreen or forest trees that you want to plant this spring. March or April is planting time and many nurseries cannot meet the demand. Trees for idle land, Christmas trees, erosion control, wind-breaks, or other ornamental purposes should be ordered.

TO USE CAUTION WITH PURCHASES — Southeastern Pennsylvania with it's dense farm population is fertile ground for all kinds of salesman and sales organizations. Farmers are urged to be careful about buying from strangers or from concerns with unknown reputation; it is not good business to pay for an item before delivery unless you are certain the concern is reliable. Many times a bargain from a stranger results in a very expensive experience.

TO IMPROVE FARM WOODLOT — The winter and spring months are best to cut out undesirable trees in the woodlot and to give good trees a better chance. A number of woodlots in this area are in need of thining and improving. Large trees may be cut for lumber with a ready demand. Extensive Service publications on this subject are available.

TO APPLY DORMANT BRUSH SPRAY—One of the recommended times to kill brush and small trees is in February and March when other trees and plants are dormant. Mixtures of 2, 4-5 T and fuel oil may be sprayed or sprinkled on tree trunks or clumps of bushes or briars for a chemical treatment. On trees over four inches in diameter it is recommended that a hatchet or axe be used to cut a nick into the tree and around the circumference of the trunk; the spray is then applied liberally into this cut.

13 County Women Win Prizes In Home-Ec Open Classes

Eight Lancaster County women placed in the open classes of the home improvement division at the Farm Show.

Winners were: Class 81, table or chair mat, Mrs. William S. Longenecker, R2, Mount Joy, fourth place; Class 82b, floor rug, Mrs. Elva Farmer, 215 Lebanon Rd, Manheim, second place, Class 82c, floor rug Mrs Farmer, second place.

Class 83b, floor rug, Mrs Longenecker, first place; Class 83c, floor rug, Mrs Longenecker; Class 84, floor rug, Mrs Longenecker, first place; Class 86, floor rug, Miss Ruth Shearer, R2, Mount Joy, fourth place; Mrs. Edna Shearer, R2 Mount Joy, fifth place.

Five county women placed in the open classes for clothing. The only first place went to Miss Norma Siegler, Lancaster, for a pleated wool skirt. Miss Connie Nissley, Landisvile, took a second place for a straight wool skirt

Other winners were Miss Mary Jane Hill, Lititz, who placed second with a dress and jacket; Miss Miriam Hershey, Quarryville, and Miss Arlene Fry, Landisville, who placed third and fifth respectively with their entries of dressy suits.

new manure spreader
rear-loads... front-spreads

No arches or beaters block the way as you load the new Allis-Chalmers Spreader. You can back up to doorways or around barn cleaners Manure is loaded over the rear and sides.

Manure moves forward and is spread low and wide—from the front end! Load weight remains on the tractor drive wheels, giving better traction

A system of beaters and rotary slingers thoroughly shreds the manure and gives uniform spreading over the ground. Delivery is low down — not affected by wind — with cleaner operation both for operator and machine

Babcock's

Healthy Chicks Make Great Layers!

Monroe C. Babcock

You Can Make Extra Money With These Long Winded Layers

One of the big reasons why Babcock Bessies make money for you is their persistency their ability to stay at good production well into the second laying year

Under good management, Babcock Bessies will still be averaging 60% production between their 12th and 15th months of lay and giving you a real bonus on your operation Here's how it works out.

If you are getting 60% production, your feed and labor costs for producing a dozen eggs probably don't exceed 37 cents a dozen right now, even using some hired labor That means on eggs selling for 50 cents per dozen you are netting 13 cents over feed and labor costs With 1,000 hens producing at 60%, that's 4500 dozen eggs or $585 over feed and labor costs for those extra three months of lay

Doesn t it make good sense to house birds that can give you all the advantages of top livability, large early egg size, and good rate of lay well into the second laying year? These factors all add up to more profits for you

We would like to have you try Babcock Bessies and will be glad to book you today for any hatch you choose Phone us collect.

Farm Show Weather Late

FARM SHOW WEATHER came a day late this year, giving 135,000 Pennsylvanians a chance to come to Harrisburg for the annual event on the first day. The second days things went back to normal — rain with a prediction for sleet and snow.

The effects of the drouth in Southeastern Pennsylvania was apparant in the placings lists this year. The usual first and seconds for Lancaster County in many of the classes were conspicuous by their absence. Part of the drop is due to the lack of quality in many field crops brought about by lack of moisture.

Perhaps more important is that many Southeastern Pennsylvania farmers, knowing that their products were not up to their usual quality this year, declined to enter much of the competition.

In the dairy cattle show, things followed a pattern that had been set this past summer. County Aryshire breeders held their own and more in the competition, but in other breeds, dairymen had to settle for seconds and thirds. While you can't blame the drouth for this, a lack of quality forage for dairy animals will show up when competition as stiff as at the Farm Show is met.

Sheep and lambs provided a bright spot with a county girl winning the grand championship in the fat lamb classes and the reserve champion also being fitted by a Lancaster County showman.

Swine competition was spotty. The classes were large, very even and hard to place. One grand champion gilt and one reserve champion gilt were won by open class exhibitors and an FFA boy also won a championship.

In the main exhibition hall, things are in a continual up-roar. The machinery exhibits are larger and more colorful this year as many of the major companies make their first showing of new lines. One of the most unusual pieces on display is a "tractor-of-tomorrow" complete with bubble canopy, easy chair type seat, radio and mobile telephone. Also being introduced is a line featuring a torque converter drive.

Bulk milk tanks take up a larger part of the displays this year. Most manufacturers are featuring tanks that can be integrated with a pipeline milker and offer the tank and milker as a package. Irrigation equipment displays this year also are enlarged as many more farmers show interest in their use.

The 1958 Farm Show is more subdued, as Lancaster Countians are concerned. But it certainly ranks as one of the most colorful and exciting in its 42 years of operation.

Labor Squeezes Farmer

IF YOU'VE EVER wondered why the price of meat in the grocers case is so much higher than the price you receive at the stock yards, this may help explain.

The American Meat Institute this week announced that the wages of meat packers just went up four cents an hour as the result of a two point rise in the cost of living index.

However during this same period used for the cost of living index, the price index for meat, fish and poultry rose less than half the total cost index.

Perhaps what farmers need is a cost of living clause attached to the demand part of the supply-demand curve. Then as the cost of living goes up, the demand for meat and meat products will follow suit.

Of course this sounds silly. But is it any more silly than getting a pay raise every time Detroit raises the automobile prices and thus ups the cost of living a point?

Packing house workers now average $2.41 an hour. This compares with a national average in all manufacturing industries of $2.09 an hour. But farmers now, due to the price squeeze, probably do not average much over $1.00 an hour for their labor.

Just what tack agriculture must take in combating the squeeze being placed on it by organized labor is not readily seen But this is clear. Something is going to have to be done to keep the farmer from being penalized in the market place for high food prices when most of the cost of the retailed produce is attributable to high labor costs in the manufacturing processes.

75 YEARS AGO (1883)

It was generally believed that the coloring matter, giving different hues to the various races of mankind, lay just under the skin. But in 1883 Dr. Maxwell, of New Castle, Pa., thought it came from the blood. He gave an account of an experiment which led him to his opinion.

In 1872 a Negro named Jas Pearce was shot accidentally in the face. The wound was of such nature that a frightful scar would have resulted unless the disfigurement could be, in a measure, prevented by the engrafting of new skin upon the multilated portion of the face. This course was adopted, and with the patient's consent, Dr. Maxwell took grafts of skin from his own arm, which, with other grafts from the patint's arm, placed them upon the surface of the wound.

The success of the operation was seriously endangered by the patient going on a spree, when some of the grafts were destroyed, but fortunately two were left, one of them being white. The piece of white skin grew to cover a space of half an inch, and for a time after the wound healed could be easily discerned at quite a distance.

At the time close examination showed that dark-colored lines formed a net-work in the skin, giving a purple tinge to it A few years later these lines, which were simply blood vessels, had increased to such extent that the whole surface of the wound was of uniform hue, the white skin having last all its characteristics. From this experiment Dr Maxwell drew the conclusion that the coloring matter which darkens the skin of som races was in the blood and not in the skin itself.

TOWN'S NAME BEWILDER'S FARMER

The custom of naming villages after certain persons living in the neighborhood had a disadvantage in his case

A western Pennsylvania farmer had lived to a mature age but had never made a trip by railroad. In 1883 a new road was run through part of his land and he was persuaded to make a trip to Philadelphia He purchased a through ticket at the nearest station, where he was assured that he would not have to change trains, then placed himself comfortably in the corner of his seat and soon went to sleep.

He was awakened by the train's slacking speed, and presently the brakeman put his head into the car and cried out in a loud voice — "Madison- Madison!"

The farmer hurried out of the car

In a moment the train proceeded on its way. Looking around, the man approached the ticket agent across the platform "How far is Philadelphia?" he asked.

"Well, that train that just left will be there in six hours. Did you want to go to Philadelphia?"

"Yes, to be sure. Here's my ticket Don't it pass me through to Philadelphia?"

"Yes, your ticket is all right! Why did you leave the train?"

'The man called out Madison, and that's my name", said the perplexed farmer.

"Oh, Madison is the name of this station."

The farmer finally reached Philadelphia by the next train, and upon his return home found great joy in telling friends of his mishap.

50 YEARS AGO (1908)

Back in 1908 an investigator by the name of Stanley Hall conducted a survey in an effort to determine the intelligence of the child mind, but did not give the ages of the youngsters interviewed.

However, of 48 children, 20 believed he sun, moon and stars were living things. Sixteen thought that flowers could feel, and 15 believed dolls would feel pain if they were burned.

God, of whom the children of half a century ago heard so much, played a large part in their conceptons Most of the children interviewed thought God was a big, perhaps blue man, to be seen in the sky, on the clouds, in church, or even in he streets. They declared God made lamps, babies, dogs, trees, money, etc., and the angels worked for Him.

The forty-ninth annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Horticultural Assn. was held in the Lancaster County Courthouse Jan. 23, 1908. Officers re-elected were:

President, Gabriel Hiester, Harrisburg; vice president, Hon. W. T. Creasy, of Catawissa; secretary, F. H. Fassett, Meshopper; corresponding secretary, Enos B. Engle, Waynesboro, treasurer, William P. Brinon, Christiana.

Fifty years ago Argentina was the largest exporting country of wheat to Great Britain. The United States held second place.

Back in 1908 there were 20,000 workers employed in the silk mills at Shanghai, China, among whom were children that worked for 3 cents a day and women at 5 cents for a 13-hour day.

Fifty years ago this week, Professor Udriski of the veterinary school at Bucharest, had successfully amputated a horse's leg at the fetlock joint and replaced the lost portion with a leather artificial leg that enabled the animal to walk about.

GAME COMMISSION ASKS FEEDING AID

The Pennsylvania Board of Game Commissioners appealed for cooperation in winter game feeding

Early snows during the winter of 1932-33 in all sections of the state covered completely, for several weeks, the usual food sources for animals and birds During that period the winter feeding activities were intensified by the Game Commission

Commission officials pointed out that rural mail carriers were permitted to carry grain and other feed on their routes

A commission spokesman said: "To my friends of the wild, care of the rural carrier" was all the direction necessary to have contributions of grain distributed in rural areas

Fellowship: Why?

Lesson for January 19, 1958

IN a "Hamfest" everybody is there because of the same interest: amateur radio At a philatelic convention everybody talks stamps. They have no other reason for getting together. At a funeral, or at a wedding, you sometimes see odd assortments of human beings, most of whom never saw one another before, all having only this one thing in common, having met the departed (by casket or by honeymoon car) at some time before. There are other kinds of gatherations, too. There are college fraternities, the main point of each chapter being that the boys, or girls, find one another good company. There are also fellowships based on some common experience, like a shipwreck, or having attended the same high school

Dr. Foreman

Unique Fellowship

The Christian Church is a fellowship, and when it is not, it has lost the right to the title of true church. But it is not like any of the fellowships above mentioned It has been called the fellowship of the uncongenial That is an exaggeration; two members of the church may have been close friends before they joined it. But natural congeniality is not and never was a necessity for membership. It is a fellowship of persons who have all experienced God's forgiving grace, whose loyalties are centered in Jesus Christ. It is said that on the same morning at the same service Chief Justice Hughes of the Supreme Court and a poor woman who took in washing joined the same church. It is highly unlikely that the jurist and the washerwoman could have had muc fun on a picnic together or would have made good partners at a lance. But they both knew in their earts what it was to love the rd Jesus.

Fellowship With a Purpose

But it is not only a past experience, however treasured, that binds together the fellowship of the family of God. It is both present experience and a living intention: that is, what is happening to us and in us now, and what we unite to do, that also makes this fellowship unique. Consider those four items mentioned in Acts about the earliest Christian church: (1) the apostles' teaching, (2) fellowship, (3) breaking bread, (4) prayers. The Christian church is the only group, organization, or society in the world that stresses this combination. It is the only fellowship where the Bible is regularly studied (the apostles' teaching); where fellowship is based on relation with the Son of God; where the sacraments are observed; and where people learn to pray. (By the way, what does your church do to teach its members how to pray?)

Harmony of Glory

There are many expressions in the New Testament putting the purpose of the church, or one part of its purpose, into a single happy phrase. One such is in Romans 15 5 Abbreviated, it runs: "May God grant you to live in such harmony with one another, in accord with Christ Jesus, that together you may glorify God" We said that the church is the fellowship of the uncongenial; but the miracle the true church works is developing a divine harmony even among these many sorts and conditions of Christians. But harmony for what? Not for its own sake, but to glorify God.

This does not mean the church is to be a hymn-singing society, though a church that won't or can't sing is certainly in a bad way. To glorify God does not mean simply to praise him It means (in the New Testament sense) so to live, as sons and daughters of God, that other persons will be attracted to God through you. Every church member ought to be one good reason for believing in God. When a Christian says "I believe in God," if he told the whole story he would add: "—because of So-and-so,—because of certain people I can name. I believe in God because I saw what God can do with people, what he made out of them." It is a terrible thing when it is the other way around, and a man says, "I should like to believe in God but can't. I've known a few church members and if their God had anything to do with making them what they are, I for one don't want anything to do with him." Let the church glorify God, not slander him!

An outstanding characteristic of K-137 KimberCHIKS

As of January 1, 1956, K-137 Kimberchiks led in early egg size in all three official random sample tests in which they were entered—California, Missouri, and Utah. Since large eggs are often worth 100% more than small, and 35-50% more than medium, this characteristic of the K-137 can make a great difference in income during the pullet year.

The K-137 is also noted for its good egg quality, both shell and interior. The high percentage of firm albumen results in more AA quality eggs.

The K-137 has good livability... 93.4% to about 18 months in the three official tests in which they were entered last year.

We invite you to compare the performance of this outstanding stock under your own management.

Casserole Dishes Are Easily Prepared, Save on Dishwashing

A favorite of the cook these days is the casserole. Casseroles are as a rule easily prepared, nourishing, can be prepared ahead of time and save on dishes There are many, many combinations that can be used in a casserole so today we have some recipes for you, some of which are main-dish casseroles and others featuring vegetables.

Pork chops lend themselves readily to a casserole. One of the following recpes uses them with potatoes and the other with spaghetti

SCALLOPED POTATOES WITH PORK CHOPS

2 cups thinly sliced raw potatoes
1 small onion, sliced
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
4 loin or rib chops (½ to ¾ inch thick
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk

Arrange potatoes and onions in layers in a greased baking dish, seasoning each layer with salt and pepper

Trim fat from chops and save it for later use Lightly season each chop with salt and pepper and coat well with three tablespoons of the flour Brown chops on both sides in some of the pork fat in a fry pan. When chops are well browned, remove them from pan.

Set aside all except one tablespoon fat from fry pan. Mix the remaining one tablespoon flour with the fat in the pan Avoid scraping off any browned flour from pan Add milk, blend lightly until smooth, and cook to the consistency of thin white sauce

Pour sauce over potatoes in baking dish Top with browned chops Cover the baking dish

Bake in a moderate oven 350° for 50 to 60 minutes until potatoes are soft and meat is tender. Makes four servings.

PORK CHOP SPAGHETTI BAKE

2 tablespoons fat
4 loin pork chops
Salt
Pepper
1 cup tomato sauce (8-ounce can)
1¼ cups condensed tomato soup (10½-ounce can)
½ cup water
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash cayenne pepper
6 ounces long spaghetti

Heat fat in large heavy skillet Add pork chops and brown well on both sides Season meat with salt and pepper While meat is browning, combine tomato sauce, soup, water, onion, salt, paprika, Worcestershire sauce and pepper. Then cook spaghetti Add one tablespoon salt and spaghetti to four and one-half cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for two mnutes. Rinse spaghetti with hot water and drain well Add to tomato mixture and mix well Turn into greased 2-quart casserole Remove pork chops from skillet and drain off excess fat Arrange over top of spaghetti mixture. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350°) about 45 minutes. Makes four servings

With this casserole you might like to serve buttered green cole slaw, enriched rolls, butter, baked apples, and a beverage.

Speaking of pork, here is another casserole featuring sausage links This casserole is almost a meal in itself — meat, rice and vegetables. It's quick and a real thawer-outer these cold winter days

SAUSAGE CASSEROLE

1 pound pork sausage links
¾ cup uncooked rice
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped onion
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, if desired
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon basil

Brown sausage links in this manner: Place them in a cold frying pan with about two tablespoons of water. Cover and cook slowly for about five minutes Then pour off the drippings and brown the links Remove sausage and add rice. Cook in drippings for five minutes or until rice is lightly browned. Add green pepper and onion and cook until tender. Pour off drippings Add tomatoes, mushrooms, salt, pepper and basil to rice mixture. Four into a 2-quart casserole and arrange sausage links on top of rice. Bake in a moderate oven (350°) for 45 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking for 10 minutes. Makes four to six servings

Here's something easy for a weekend supper —

POTATO AND FRANKFURTER CASSEROLE

2 tablespoons bacon drippings
¼ cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon powdered dry mustard
½ teaspoon celery seed
⅔ cup water
½ pound frankfurters
2 cups thinly sliced raw potatoes
2 tablespoons vinegar

Heat bacon fat and cook onion in it until golden brown Mix flour and seasonings and blend into the bacon fat-and-onion mixture Stir in the water and bring to a boil. Split fankfurters lengthwise and cut twice crosswise.

Put alternate layers of potatoes and frankfurters in a greased casserole Pour the sauce over the top Cover and bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 45 to 50 minutes Remove from oven and pour vinegar over the potatoes and frankfurters Cover and return to oven for five minutes Makes four servings

There are lots of ways to use fish in casseroles Our next recipe calls for salmon

SALMON AND POTATO PUFF

1 cup salmon (7¾ ounce can)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons finely cut celery
2 tablespoons finely cut parsley
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1½ cups hot or cold seasoned mashed potatoes
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
3 drops tabasco sauce
2 eggs, separated

For Farm Women . . .

Drain the fish, and flake it with a fork Heat the butter or margarine and cook the celery, parsley, and onion in it until the onion is golden brown

Combine with the salmon, mashed potatoes, and seasonings Beat egg yolks well and add to the mixture Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in Pile lightly in a greased baking dish

Bake in a moderate oven (350°) for one hour or until firm in the center and lightly browned Four or five servings

In our next recipe, there's a bubbly, golden topping over layers of fish, spinach and mushroom soup Bake it in a shallow dish so the glorious cheese topping will show to best advantage With a salad and dessert, you'll have a substantial meal "Florentine" means spinach is used and the green touch is marvelous!

FILLETS FLORENTINE, BUBBLY CHEESE TOPPING

⅔ cup uncooked white rice
1⅓ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup (10½ oz)
½ cup milk
1½ to 2 cups cooked, seasoned chopped, drained spinach
1 pound fish fillets (sole, haddock, halibut, whiting, etc) partially thawed or thawed
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1 cup sharp chese, grated

Put the rice, water and salt in a 2 quart saucepan Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat Turn the heat down low Cover with a lid and simmer 14 minutes Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes

Spread the cooked rice over a well greased shallow baking dish or other baking dishes holding at least six cups Sprinkle with the black pepper Mix together the mushroom soup and milk Pour half the soup over the rice Spread the spinach over the rice Cut the fish into serving pieces Arrange over the spinach Sprinkle the fish with the lemon juice, salt and one eighth teaspoon black pepper Pour on the rest of the soup Sprinkle the cheese over the top to cover the fish and vegetables

Bake in a preheated 375° oven 25 minutes or until the fish flakes easily Place under the broiler until the cheese becomes brown and bubbly This recipe makes six generous servings

Make attractive servings by placing the layers of food in individual casseroles

The seafood used in this casserole is shrimp —

SHRIMP-NOODLE CASSEROLE

4 cups cooked noodles
1 pound cookd, shelled shrimp
2 cups white sauce
1½ cups sharp Ceddar cheese
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of cayenne pepper

Combine noodles and shrimp Add cheese, Worcestershire sauce and cayenne pepper to white sauce Add to noodles and shrimp combination and bake in a moderate oven until the casserole is golden brown

If you would like an unusual cheese sauce for this recipe, replace the Cheddar combination with one cup shredded Brick cheese, one diced pimiento, and one-half teaspoon grated onion Or two cups shredded Gouda cheese. one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and one-half teaspoon garlic salt may be used

Dr. Henning Praises Farm Women For Entries of Food, Clothing

HARRISBURG, Jan 13 — From the quality of homemaking displays entered in the 1758 Pennsylvania Farm Show, farm women have more than done their share in making the exposition a consumer's show ' State Secretary of Agriculture William L Henning declared

' Sputniks and guided missiles may be sailing overhead but home baking canning foods and making clothing goes on as usual on the farm, he told the opening sessions of the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvasia

Events at the Farm Show give ample proof that farm mothers have little trouble with juvenile delinqency, he added

"Instead of driving 'hot rods' over the highways, more and more of our Pennsylvania farm boys and girls have taken to riding light horses for exercise and diversion ' Henning said "The Farm Show paid tribute to this growing movement by having 4-H pony and light horse clubs demonstrate their abilities in drills and contests Thursday night in the large arena

The State agriculture chief also declared that farm women should continue their interest in public education because agricultur, as well as industry, will need a continuing supply of scientists Exceptional students who have the desire to continue in agrilulture will find plenty of opportunity in agricultural research, extension and in fields allied to farming, he emphasized

Farm women were compimented by Henning on the quaity of canned and baked goods and clothing exhibits at the Farm Show Home canning has not become a "lost art" on Pennsylvania farms when the women and our homemaking students and 4-H Clug members provide such a high type of exhibits that are now on display at the Farm Show he declared

"The 1958 Farm Show is a consumer show, "Henning continued "It is dedicated to better farming for better service to consumers" He urged all members of the farm women's organiza tion to visit the consumer display fo the Pennsylvania State University on the main uoor at the Farm Show

Christmas Trees To Bring Lower Wholesale Prices

Harrisburg, Jan 13 — Commercial Chrismas tree growers were told to prepare for a cut in prices at wholesale levels in 1958 J. B. Althouse of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, made he prediction during a Farm Show meeting here

Althouse, who was in charge of a recently completed statewide survey of Christmas tree growers to determine marketing habits and average prices, attributed the price slash for 1958 trees to retail price cutting last year when many trees were unsold near Christmas

Nearly 93 per cent of the 2,600 Christmas tree growers queried on the survey contributed information, Althouse said. Of this number about 95 per cent could be classed as a "commercial grower"

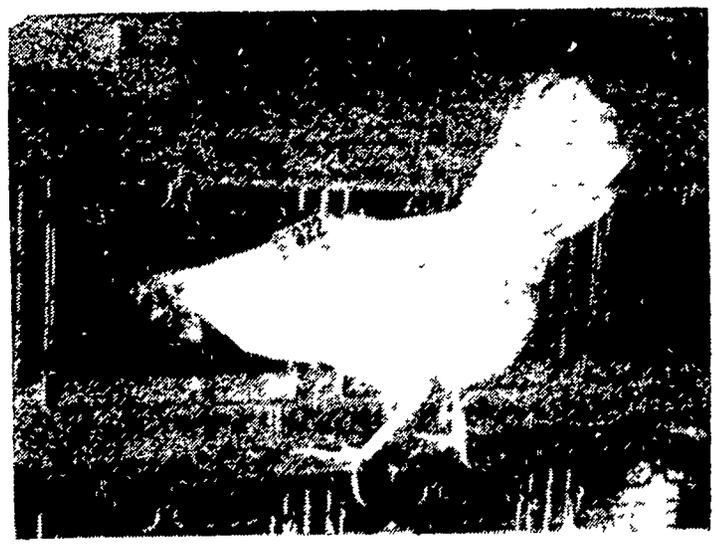
How would you like a whole flock of pullets just like this one?



She's a busy Greider Foundation Pullet going about her business of laying an egg, which she does nearly every day She'll be the mother of many of those husky little Greider Chicks you'll be getting.

How would you like to get 90% Production?

We won't guarantee 90% production We're not that foolish But many of our customers are reporting over 90%, and we know they're not kidding, because we've had production like that right here on our own farm.

Our 1958 Model Greider Chicks will be the best we ever produced.

You can order your Greider Chicks from the hatchery or through the following:

tobacco is now stored up to three years in the bale and excess moisture will destroy quality, nearly all tobacco will be straight run with fillers and top leaves out, and some of the firms will still want sized leaf In other words, the 1958 desires will vary little from the present practices

The officers of the association were not so optimistic about the tobacco situation They urged farmers to reduce tobacco acreage until "we get a better price for tobacco"

The recommendaion was made, they said, because all costs of tobacco production have increased while tobacco prices "are only half what they were 10 years ago"

In the annual tobacco show grand champion hands were shown by the following J Arthur Swarr, Landisville, binder type, Michael Eshleman, R2 Holwood, wrapper B, and John S Habacker, R1 Lancaster, filler B

Harold Endslow, R1 Marietta, was elected president of the association Other officers are Vice president, John Burkholder, R3 Lititz, secretary, Arthur Reist, 1050 Eden Rd, Lancaster, and treasurer, William H Hackman, R3 Elizabethtown.

New Holland J.C. Selects Stauffer For Award

Aaron Z Stauffer, of Ephrata R 1, was named the Outstanding Young Farmer of this area by the New Holland Junior Chamber of Commerce at a banquet on Monday night at the Blue Ball Fire Hall Stauffer won the award, which included an inscribed plaque and a $25 Savings Bond.

The winning of the O Y F. Award over six other nominee finalists entitles Stauffer to enter state competition at Du Bois on March 28

The New Holland chapter received 21 nominations at the start of this project Many of the nominees were reluctant in revealing their financial status and felt that filling out the application would be bragging about themselves The committee quickly overcome the first difficulty, involving the disclosing of financial status, by having the nominee seal his application in an envelope which was turned over directly to the chairman of the judges

The judges, which included Earl Sauder, Benjamin Snavely and John Gingrich, all of New Holland, judged and arrived at a decision from the contents of the application without knowing the names of the applicants

The organization feels this is the perfect opportunity for young farmers to gain new ideas on forward farming practices. The chapter hopes that next year will bring out a larger number of applicants and that the losing nominees will try again as they gain new experience and become a stronger contender

The Jaycees feel that being situated in Lancaster County which is often called the Garden Spot of the World, should certainly produce an applicant strong enough to win state championship

National Conservation Exposition, Plowing Match to Be Held Here

The addition of a national conservation exposition and plowing match to Pennsylvania in 1958 proves the reputation of Pennsylvania's agriculture, State Agriculture Secretary William L Henning said today at the Pennsylvania Farm Show

'We are very proud and most encouraged that this event was awarded Pennsylvania' Henning declared

At a meeting in Hershey the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts sponsors of the national event, awarded the educational exposition to Pennsylvania It will be held August 21 and 22 during Pennsylvania Dutch Days

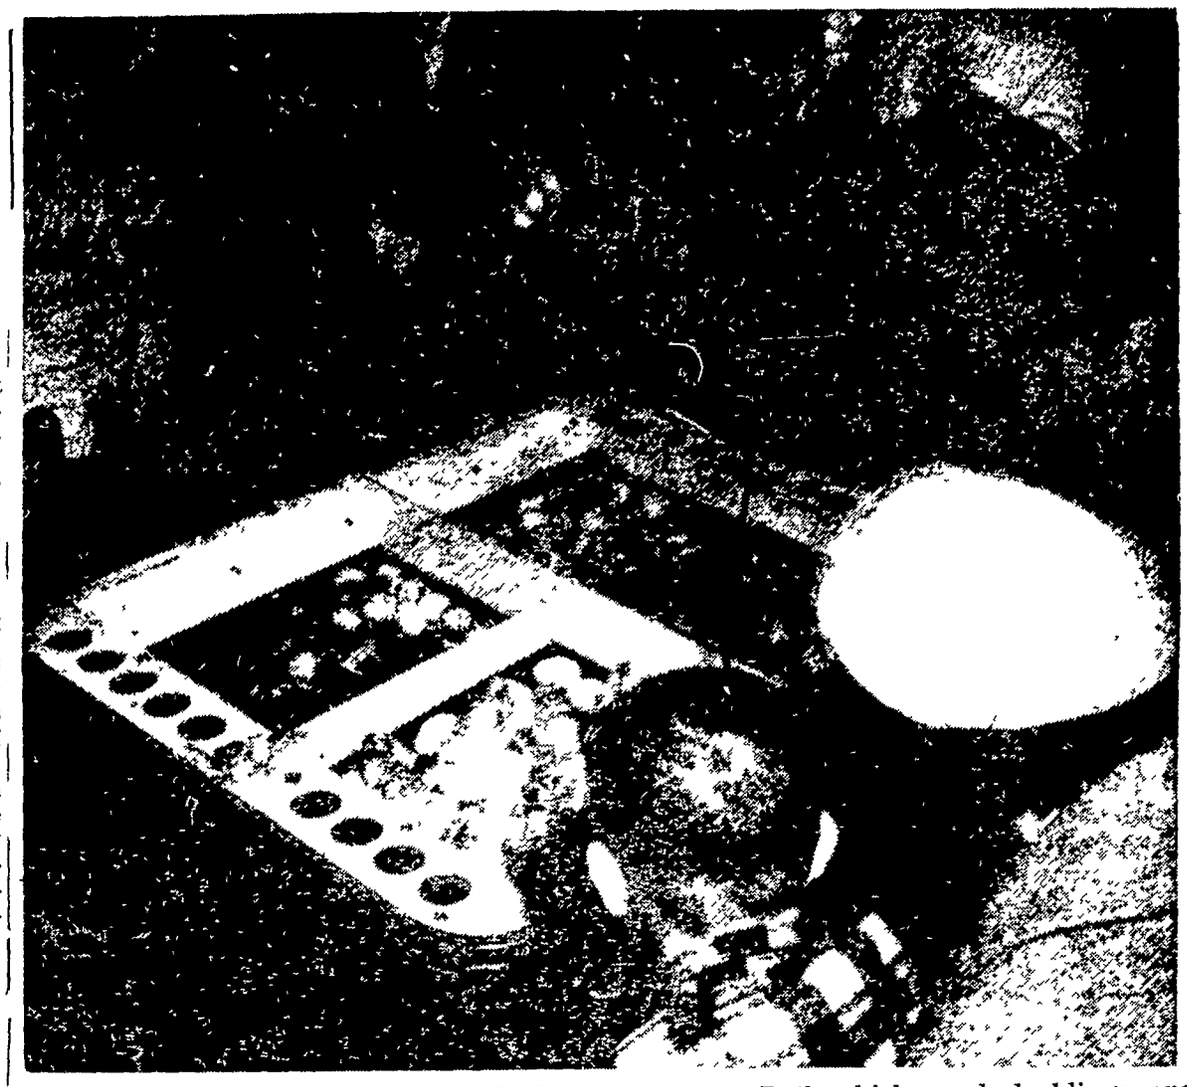
'I have never seen such impressive facilities and conservation practices," Sloan Rainwater of Walnut Ridge, Ark, remarked following a tour of the Hershey Estates, farms, site selected for the 1958 plowing event Rainwater is vice president of the national organization

According to Rainwater emphasis is placed on the conservation phase of the program expected to attract more than 100,000 persons He explained that farm machinery and equipment manufacturers will demonstrate equipment during the event

Rainwater pointed out that the conservation practices he observed during a visit to areas surrounding Hershey and Lebanon were the most concentrated for any one area he has witnessed in any of the 48 states he has visited

In addition to Rainwater and Orrin Hofstetter, a national director from Ohio, the tour of the Hershey Farms facilities were taken by James Bobb, vice president of the Hershey Estates and Deputy State Secretary of Agriculture Leland H Bull

A meeting of the Pennsylvania committee for the event will be held in State College on January 22, according to Ralph E Patterson ,head of agricultural engineer at Pennsylvania State University



THE PENNSYLVANIA POULTRY Federation's "Farm Show Hatchery" proved again this year to be one of the most interesting and popular educational exhibits on the grounds. Both chicks and ducklings are hatched out in iew of the crowds. A plastic dome allows everyone to get a good view. (LF Photo)

'Spudniks' Popular At 42nd Farm Show

HAIRISBURG, Jan. 13 — Featurned by "Spudniks," food offerings at the 42nd Pennsylvania Farm Show were a chief interest for hungry crowds that consumed tons of all kinds of edibles during the show which ends today

"Spudniks" are donuts containing mealy baked potato pulp and were offered for the first time at the food booth of the Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers Association. They are light and tasty, made over a potato grower's recipe

"Turkeyburgers" were new at the Pennsylvania Farm Foods Center booth of the State Poultry Federation They are made of ground Pennsylvania turkey meat.

Q. How much more could I earn with K-137 Kimberchiks?

A. The only accurate way to answer that question is for you to raise a flock of K-137's on your own farm.

However, under the favorable conditions that exist at Random Sample Laying Tests, the K-137 entries this year averaged $3.69 income over feed cost, which is $0.53 better than the average of all entries in the five tests where they were entered*.

Q. What about profit dependability of the K-137?

A. The rankings in the right hand column below run from 2nd place to no worse than 6th, a showing more consistent than any other competitor in these tests.

INCOME OVER FEED COST PER CHICK STARTED
*1956 57 Random Sample Tests

*In addition to these tests the K-137 was also entered in Florida where income figures are not reported

Q. How many eggs did the K-137 lay in these five tests?

A. The average for all K-137 entries was 236.1 eggs per pullet housed. This was 14.55 eggs better than the average of all entries.

Q. How about livability?

A. At this writing we haven't received the figures for California. In the other four tests the K-137's viability was 1.8% to 2.7% better than the average of all entries.

Q. What size egg does the K-137 lay?

A. Normally it averages at least 26 ounces per dozen during the first laying year. This strain-cross is noted for the large size of its early eggs.

Q. What color egg does it lay?

A. Pure white.

Q. How big a bird is the K-137?

A. The mature body weight has been established at around 4¼ to 4½ pounds.

Q. How's the egg quality?

A. It's one of the bird's strong points. Shell thickness is good and percentage of firm albumen is high. As measured by actual breakout in the 7th California Random Test, K-137 eggs averaged 78.7 Haugh units, or 5.6 H.U. better than the average for all entries. Actual data are shown by this graph:
